THE FORCE BILL.

The prospect for defeating the odious Federal election law is not good. Mr.
FRANK HATTON, late Republican Postmaster-General, who is now editor of the Washington Post, refers to it as a measure "to galvanize into life again the dead and stinking politics of the reconstruction period."The New York Herald of Sunday has a cartoon illustrative of the Force Bill, a party of soldiers with bayoneted muskets holding a ballot-box on the bayonets; a smiling Republican standing on a ladder dropping in Republican ballots, while the "man on horseback," with drawn sword, keeps Democrats back.We publish in to-day's CHRONICLE an able and thoughtful editorial from the New York Commercial Advertiser, which defines it as a "New Way to Appoint Congressmen." It shows the true purpose of the bill, and exposes the pretense of its advocates and defenders.So far as argument is concerned, there is no question that the Democrats have every advantage. But, unfortunately, reason and argument have had little weight in the present Congress. Certainly in the House, might has made right, and infamous partizanship has taken the place of statesman-like procedure and practice. This has been evidenced in many ways, chiefly by the wholesale turning out of Democratic Congressmen and the passage of the Federal Election law. The question now is: Will the Republican majority in the Senate do likewise? We believe that they will, though they will seek to do it in a less brutal way. They held a caucus Monday night and all who were present, except four, favored a change in the Senate rules by which the majority may limit the debate on any bill after the discussion has progressed three consecutive days.Two of this number did not vote at all.
Only 29 were present. The absence of eighteen Senators from the caucus is thought to indicate their silent opposition to the measure. We hope so, though we fear they will come around to support a revolutionary change in the rules before the Senate adjourns. It is probable that the Republicans will pause now until the Democrats show their hands. It has occurred to us that the Democrats have talked a great deal too much in the public print about how they would defeat the bill, and that their brags about defeating it are neither wise nor politic. Of course the Democrats will defeat it if they can, but it will be a brave Republican who will stand out against Czar REED and the President. It is said that the President has made up his mind that the Force bill shall pass the Senate and become a law this session. The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says:Republican Senators are not at variance among themselves over the question whether the Election bill sent to them by the House ought to be passed or shelved. Not a bit of it. The plain fact is that they mean to pass it if the thing is a physical possibility, and they believe they can. The Tariffbill is simply an ignis fatuus to the Democrats. Their deliberations rise no higher than consideration of the best and surest means to do what they irrevocably mean shall be done, if within the compass of human possibility. No question of constitutionality, advisibility or expediency has burdened their political or moral conscience for days past. "The bill must be passed; how can it be passed?" is the one question under consideration.President Harrison is a slow man—remarkably slow. He has tortuously made his way along to the Federal Election bill. It is his last ditch on this side of the next general election and he has made it the fortress or grave of his party. The President lived just far westward enough to disbelieve in the efficacy of a Tariff bill for all political woes. In short, he sees in the Tariff bill a tremendous landslide to the democrats and but few and feeble props to arrest it. Consequently, he had already dropped the Tariff bill as a party engine before its passage in the House.The Democratic Plan.
A Democratic Senator, speaking today of a probable attempt by the Republicans of the Senate to change the rules to permit the consideration and speedy passage of the Federal Election bill, said:"The Republicans think they may secure a change of the rules by simply wearying us out, inasmuch as we will have to do all the talking and they will only rest and listen. They only delude themselves when they think the physical exertion will be all on our side. They lose sight of the important fact that it will require physical effort on their part to maintain a quorum in the Senate at all times. We will have no particular need to keep up the quorum, and our men can doze in the committee rooms and go home occasionally. It will be the plan of the Democrats in debating to pause the moment a quorum is lacking and exercise their right to demand a quorum before further business be proceeded with. It will require at least half an hour, and probably longer, each time to get the quorum, which interval will furnish the speaker just as much time in which to rest.""I think it will be impossible for the Republicans to keep a quorum present.
They have only forty seven members.
Of these Stanford is away, Chandler is ill with kidney trouble and cannot stand long watches, while Morrill is so feeble as not to be counted upon. Thus the number is reduced to forty-four—a bare quorum—and I feel sure there will always be a few absentees. A motion to change the rules will admit of wide debate embracing every national question, and we can talk interminably, for there are some pretty hearty fellows on the Democratic side."

A BRIGHT SIDE TO THE PICTURE.

There is a bright side to the picture of the Southern farmer's condition. In North Carolina our cotton crop was almost a failure and for three years it has been a short crop. But our other crops have been good, and in the States south of us the crops have been excellent, and the farmers are in a much better financial condition than the farmers of any other section of the country. While corn and wheat—(the products of the Western farms)—have been very low—so low in fact that the producers have, in some places, been burning corn for fuel, the crops of Southern farmers have brought fair prices. If, in North Carolina, our farmers had raised a full crop of cotton last year, our financial condition would have been so much better that our people would have been in a condition much improved.Instead of always looking on the dark side, let us look on the silver lining of the cloud. The crop prospects in North Carolina are far better than for years.
The crops have, so far, been made at less expense than ever in the history of the State. And not only so, but provisions have been cheaper, and the farmers have exercised more wisdom in making their purchases than ever before. If the promise of a large crop this Fall is realized, they will be able to get in better shape than in years. While justly complaining at the burdens of taxation imposed on them by an unjust tariff tax, Southern farmers have this pleasant reflection: That, while prices have been low, the only crops which have brought fair and customary prices are:Rice, Cotton,
Sugar,
Tobacco,
Peanuts,
—all Southern crops. In some of them the South has a monopoly.

BEAUFORT FALLS INTO LINE.

The Democratic Convention of Beaufort county enthusiastically adopted the following resolution:RESOLVED, That we cordially endorse the public course of our able and honored Senator, Z. B. VANCE; that we believe that North Carolina has had no son who has reflected more honor upon the State, or who has been more faithful to her interests.Ninety other counties will do likewise when their conventions are held. The people are for VANCE and they are enthusiastic for his re-election to the Senate.

IT CAN BE DONE.

(Tarboro Southerner.)
The county ticket this year in Edgecombe is essentially a farmer's ticket.
Now if each farmer will set to work and get two votes for the ticket, it will be elected. Suppose the plan is tried.The House Committee on Education has made a favorable report on the bill to appropriate $15,000 to an agricultural college in each State the first year, and to increase the appropriation $1,000 a year until it shall reach the amount of $25,000, at which it shall remain perpetually. This will give the A. and M.
College at Raleigh an income sufficient to enable it to do the best and most thorough work.NEW WAY TO APPOINT CON-GRESSMEN.

[New York Commercial Advertiser.]

We do not wonder that as the people begin to understand more and more of the election bill now under consideration in Congress the excitement in regard to it is on the increase. It is a revolutionary scheme beyond question. If adopted it virtually places in the hands of a political party the entire control of the majority of the representatives in Congress. We do not oppose it because it has been introduced and urged by the Republican party. We think that the leaders of that organization are more disposed than their rivals to rule with a strong hand, and that they are likely to exercise any power placed in their control to perpetuate their hold of the Administration, without much regard to the means, so long as the end is attained. We have no more faith in the unimpeachable virtue of the Democrats than of the Republicans, but the former have never gone to such extremes as the latter for mere party aggrandisement, and we do not believe they could be successful in such measures if the situation was reversed. The Republican is more radical and less conservative in thought and action than his political opponent, and that party would not have accepted peacefully the treatment it has bestowed upon the opposition since the last presidential election.If the Federal judges, as a rule, were Democrats, and this party was in control of Congress, and proposed to enact an election law exactly similar to the one now under discussion in the House, with the threat that it would be applied to every State that has hitherto elected Republican congressmen on the ground that they were unfairly returned, their rivals would put the whole country in a blaze of excitement. Meetings would be held in the churches; State fests would be appointed wherever there was a Republican Governor; appeals would be made to the spirit of '76, when the fathers fought for their rights and open resistance to such an infamous attempt would be advocated at every public gathering. We can imagine how the orators would ring the changes on the audacious proposition that the Democratic party should have entire control of the election of representatives in every congressional district, and that whoever its subordinate officials should choose to say was elected must be admitted to a seat on the organization of the House, no matter who the State authorities might declare was their choice.
They would ask if it was reasonable to allow mere party supervisors working in the sole interest of one political organization, men not known perhaps in the place to which they were sent and not trusted by the people, to decide who was elected to Congress so that their certificate should override the broad judgment of the State and all the delegates of the State authorities? No one should be willing to ask for himself a power or a privilege he would not concede to another if the situation was reversed.We do not see how any respectable newspaper writer can get his own consent to make such gross misrepresentations of this scheme as we find daily in the party organs. The most subservient of these in this city said in a leading editorial on Tuesday that it was a "fact that the Lodge bill merely proposes to extend to the whole country the system of Federal supervision that we have already here in New York." But the system we have here in New York is already by act of Congress applicable to the whole country, and has been so for many years. If that is all, why such extraordinary pressure in behalf of a new bill? Does the Lodge bill "merely propose" to appoint two supervisors, one from each party, for each polling place, with no more than a right to watch and supervise as now provided for by law? The editor knows that this is not so, and that his statement is wholly untrue, both in letter and spirit. The bill proposes to select two supervisors of the one dominant party, and to give to them power and prerogatives never placed in such hands since the right of the people to govern themselves was first recognized in this country. Will the "system" we already have in operation here allow the supervisors of one party to send the candidate of their choice to Washington, no matter who the Governor and Secretary of State may say was elected, and make that supervisor's certificate such evidence of his election that the Clerk of the House is subject to a heavy penalty if he does not put the candidate's name on the roll and give him the seat?But this scheme is not only in the interest of one political party, and designed solely to perpetuate its power, but it is a great step in the progress toward centralization which is utterly opposed to the true theory of our political institutions. The State and the Federal government cannot both preside at the ballot-box and manage the elections, even if the Federal officials were not partisans, and placed at the polls for partisan purposes. If the people of the State cannot be trusted to hold fair elections, then they will not be held. The Federal Judges, if entrusted with the power, can only select from that or from some other State, the designated officials. Is there any likelihood that better men will be secured by this process than by the voice of the people expressed through the properly constituted State authorities? It is not fair elections and just returns that are aimed at in this one-sided measure, and its authors know very well that it is not. It is party advantage, and that alone, which furnishes the motive for this extraordinary legislation.If the people of the United States are ready for revolution and favor such an entire change in our system of government, let it come and we will make the best of it. But we protest against the method by which certain unscrupulous politicians for mere party advantage seek to force it upon the country, cracking their whip over all of their own subjects who question the fairness of the measure, and denying to all others as far as they can the privilege of showing the true intent and character of the proposition.If Hon. JOHN JAMES INGALLS is not too busy calculating his dividends in the Southern Kansas Mortgage company, let him put his ear to the ground and listen. For the corn-burners are coming.—Kansas Democrat.JACKSON DEMOCRATIC CONVEN-

Jones For Solicitor, Hayes For Senator, Cowan For the House.

(COP. STATE CHRONICLE.)

DILLSBORO, N. C., July 14, 1890.—

Jackson county held its primary to-day at Webster and instructed for Kope Elias for Congress; for Hayes, of Swain, for Senate; for Cowan, of Jackson, for the House; and for George A. Jones, of Macon, for Solicitor.Hayes was undoubtedly nominated for the Senate, as nearly enough counties have instructed for him already.
Gen. Vance, it is thought, will be the nominee for Congress. Judge McKee was also instructed for Supreme Court Justice, vice Clark.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE.

(Dr. Felton at a Georgia meeting to protest against the original package decision.)The whole thing [the original package trouble] is a part and parcel of that infernal internal revenue system, and grows out of it directly. I would wipe it out, if possible, from the face of the government. I would to day repeal the law taxing tobacco, taxing whiskey, taxing oleomargarine, taxing compound lard, taxing the issue of State banks.
The whole infamous thing should be blotted out. As long as it continues to exist you will have Federal officials licensing and authorizing men to override the supremacy of Georgia over her domestic and police affairs. This whole affair is a triumph of the whiskey ring.

ICE CELLAR.

We wish to announce to all users of ice that we have opened a cellar for its sale under the Henry Building, opposite the Postoffice, where Mr. R. H. Murphy will be pleased to give every one full value of their money on tickets.This ice is made on large iron plates, then cut into blocks. This process insures absolute Purity, wonderful Transparency, great Density and freedom from air bubbles. It is more nearly like natural lake ice than it can be made by any other process, but is much purer and

MORE DURABLE,
